First published in 1998, this text is the prefatory first part of Austin's Lectures on Jurisprudence or the Philosophy of Positive Laws and first appeared separately from the Lectures in 1832. This volume reproduces the standard text of The Province from Robert Campbell's fifth edition published in 1885 and clarifies the structure and readability of the text retaining Austin's Analysis as a whole at the start of the book John Austin 1790-1859 was the first professor of jurisprudence at the University of London which is now University College His classic The Province of Jurisprudence Determined was derived from his course lectures Austin took great pride in his ability to clearly delineate the study of law Austin took a surgical approach and created a stripped down view of material central to the study of law While this approach overlooks the ambiguity inherent in interpretations of law it nevertheless stands as a landmark work and provides an excellent starting point for any deeper inquiry into the subject of jurisprudence

How to Do Things with Words John Langshaw Austin, 1975 This work sets out Austin's conclusions in the field to which he directed his main efforts for at least the last ten years of his life Starting from an exhaustive examination of his already well known distinction between performative utterances and statements Austin here finally abandons that distinction replacing it with a more general theory of illocutionary forces of utterances which has important bearings on a wide variety of philosophical problems
